So Many Men Grow Fat When They Quit An letics Because

They Abandon Exercising Entirely.

EY is it that so many ex-atm stes

leges during the past two or three menon. Nearly all of the gridiron, the former great captains quarterbacks and halfbacks and backs and linesmen-are big and and and fat. Putting one of them ng to squeeze an orange into a peacourse "Big Bill" Edwards of ton, while he could easily qualify picule, is hardly a fair example. As ember Isil when in the height o football giory, he never did possess lean and sinewy contour of a ballet er. But there are others. To spare arrasament, I'll mention no names there is, at one college, an oldtime who could once tear off 100 yards 'ten flat," and come mighty near ! his football togs. If he didn't weigh pounds when I saw him the other I'm a Dutchman. And if he can un 100 yards in twenty seconds flat I'll give him a medal. There was another— but why continue? The plain fact of he matter is that oldtime athletes do w fat, just like other ordinary mor-berhaps they grow a little fatter. hat's a thing that has been troubling d causing mental agitation among blotca ever since I began competing amateur sports myself—and I won't ell you how long ago that was. And ter for so many years that I've come to regard it as a joke. No, friend, this exactly lean, you might say, but yet

Consistency which the should nover cut out all the recise.

Any normal and healthy man who has seen an adhete can keep himself in fine bysical condition by exercising coosmally. It isn't necessary to go househ intermittent periods of grueling work. A little light exercise is the best man on this job from a distance, but he is a line man and not extremely good there, so it will be somewing, is enough. Don't overdo it. Pighters who pust up when their day is the ring is ever are often pointed at, and their condition is used as a sure in these cases the light due to hard training and frying it failed more often.

The Crimson boys showed they are strong in practically every department of the gradient game, and with further practice should prove one partment of the gradion game, and with further practice should prove one of the fastest machines ever seen on the football field. Many are of the opinion that Yale, two weeks hence, is apt to be downed by the Providence team, as she was last year, but, even so, this isn't any sign that she will defeat the Educ. It will be remembered that last season, after Harvard walloped Brown. 20 to 8, the latter wiped the chalked areans with Tale 21 to 6, yet the best the Cambridge team could do against the New Havenites was to play a sebreless tie. JOE MANDOT PUTS SAYLOR TO SLEEP IN 15TH ROUND

Baker Boy's Dad Proves Good Mascot in Sensational New Orleans Contest.

(Special to The Evening World.)

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 20.—Joe Mandot knocked out Young Saylor in the fifteenth round at the West Side Athletic Club, using a right to the jaw. The local baker by was halled by 5,000 enthusiastic admirant present as the "com-Marcelin and t, an aged French baker, father of the victor, was at the ringside. He had never before attended a prize fig . and did not know what I' was all about.

Saylor had lightly the advantage in height and reach, but Mandot easily offset this in cleverness, speed and endurance. Playin for the point of the jaw, Mandot crossed a hard right and floored Saylor the eleventh round for the count of eight. This was the first knockdown, although Saylor had swung a terrific right to the neck in the eighth round and knocked Mandot half way Saylor railled flercely on getting up in Saylor railled fiercely on getting up in the eleventh and administered consid-erable punishment with pile driver loops to the kidneys and stomach. Mandot was unable to land effectively again in the eleventh.

The thirteenth marked the beginning of the end for Saylor. He is a lithe, shifty fighter, game to the core and especially good at infighting, but Man-dot's right cross was too much for him.
